

LUNG CANCER
RESEARCH FOUNDATION
Living. Breathing. Science.

Lung Cancer Support Line

(844) 835-4325
toll-free

Our toll-free Lung Cancer Support Line is a completely free resource available to those affected by lung cancer. We offer education, connections to resources and opportunities for engagement to those who have received a diagnosis of lung cancer, their caregivers and loved ones. Call as often as you wish! We're here to help.

Support line hours: Monday-Friday 9am-5pm ET (8am-4pm CT)
Learn more about ways to find support at lcrf.org/support-line

Helping patients with lung cancer and their families by offering...

LUNG CANCER EDUCATION

“The only thing I heard the pulmonologist say was that I was going to die. He didn’t really use those words, but that is all that I heard,” said Cliff Norton, who received a lung cancer diagnosis. Due to the level of distress and anxiety that is so normal to feel at the time of diagnosis, individuals often need additional teaching. Our free educational materials and tools present a clear picture of diagnosis and treatment options.

CONNECTION

“We don’t just connect patients and caregivers with resources,” said Peggy Bezruki, RN-BC, Lung Cancer Support Line Manager. “We can also help them find others who have shared their experiences. Our free peer-to-peer matching service offered with the Cancer Hope Network is a valuable tool for making connections.”

ENGAGEMENT OPPORTUNITIES

Joe Hamilton, who lost his mother to lung cancer, sees the value of getting involved in the cause like this. “We live in honor of our loved ones. I feel better knowing I am making efforts towards her legacy and life. Something good will come of this.” The Lung Cancer Support Line helps patients and caregivers better face the challenges of lung cancer.

Call us at (844) 835-4325 toll -free | Monday-Friday 9am-5pm ET (8am-4pm CT)
Learn more about ways to find support at lcrf.org/support-line